Sustainability Policy

What Sustainability Means to Us

We've woven sustainability into the way we work every day:

Thoughtful Sourcing.

We're taking the time to learn more about the ethical and environmental values of all our designers, as well as their hopes for the future. As we continue to grow, we aim to work more and more with designers who share our commitment to thoughtful, sustainable practices

Less Waste, More Love

From repurposing sample gowns to recycling packaging, we do everything we can to reduce waste and keep materials out of landfill.

Eco-Friendly Packaging

Your dress is precious, but the planet is too. We keep packaging minimal and choose recyclable or biodegradable options wherever possible.

A Greener Boutique

We're committed to creating a boutique that's as kind to the planet as it is beautiful. From energy-efficient lighting to thoughtful everyday practices, we're always looking for ways to reduce our environmental footprint. We also prioritise working with local suppliers wherever possible to support our community and minimise transport impact. And, for every bride who requests it, we will plant a tree through The National Forest, helping your special day leave a positive legacy.

Always Improving

Sustainability is a journey, and we're continually learning and evolving. As we grow, so will the steps we take to protect our planet and inspire positive change in our industry.

At TDR Bridal, your dream dress can feel good in every possible way, on you, and for the planet.
